LECCE

Lecce

Lecce is a historic city of 95,766 inhabitants in southern Italy. It is the province of second-highest population in the region of Apulia, as well as one of that region's most important cities

LECCE: OLD TOWN

It is the main city of the Salentina peninsula a sub-peninsula at the heel of the Italian peninsula and is over 2.000 years old

Because of the rich Baroque architectural monuments found in the city, Lecce is commonly nicknamed "The Florence of the South". The city also has a long traditional affinity with Greek culture going back to its foundation.

IN TERMS OF INDUSTRY, THE "LECCE STONE"—A PARTICULAR KIND OF
LIMESTONE— IS ONE OF THE CITY'S MAIN
EXPORTS, BECAUSE IT IS VERY SOFT AND WORKABLE, THUS SUITABLE FOR SCULPTURES.

Lecce is also an important agricultural centre, chiefly for its olive oil and wine production, as well as an industrial centre specializing in ceramic production.

Sicily

Sicily - also known as the “Trinacria” from the Greek “three tips” - is characterized by the presence of many cultures, due to the different colonizations. One example is the Valle dei Templi in Agrigento, where we can still see the temples and the statues which date back to the Greek colonization.

Another magnificent attraction is the nature.
Starting from the beautiful landscapes...

Caltanissetta

.... To the Etna, a volcano that's still active and that keeps surprising us with his beauty...

.... Then the seas, which are considered to be among the most beautiful in the world...

San Vito lo Capo

Riserva dello zingaro

... And of course the food, that is Sicily is typically fried or very sweet

Arancina

Cannoli alla ricotta

But on top of all, the most beautiful thing, is how a Sicilian will always try to make you feel at home.
